

The Saturday Evening Post.

VOLUME I.

PHILADELPHIA, AUGUST 17, 1822.

NUMBER 55.

PRINTED BY ATKINSON & ALEXANDER,
No. 53 MARKET STREET,
Four doors below Second st.—north side.

CONDITIONS.

The Saturday Evening Post is published once a week, at $2 per annum, payable half yearly in advance—or THREE DOLLARS if not paid before the end of the year.

Subscribers will have the privilege to insert an advertisement, throughout the year, to the extent of half a square, at two dollars additional—with the customary allowance for renewals and alterations. Non-subscribers to pay at the rate of one dollar per square for three insertions.

FOR THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.

Thou hast beheld, when childhood blossomed gay,
And to the morn gave its rich perfume,
Thou hast beheld its petals grace display,
Rejoicing in the Eden of their bloom;—
Fair is the loveliness of childhood, fair,
Rich is the fragrance lent to morning's breath,
But sainted charms are consecrated there,
When sweetly pillow'd on the bed of death.

T.

FOR THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.

RELIGION! Thou art all a noble theme
For inspiration, thou thyself inspired;—
Wakener of bliss! beyond the poet's dream,
Daughter of Love! in majesty attired
Thou walkest the heavens, yet converse hold'st with men;—

Traveller in Light! within whose ample ken
Lies the broad realm of happiness, I greet
Thee, Essence, not approachless!—with glad feet
Will I attend thee, fountain of my joy,
And quaff from thy right hand, pleasures that never will ebb! T.

FOR THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.

A VISION.

It was in a wild bower, where fragrant and green
Hung many a tendril which nature had twined,
Entwined in fancy—gay—thoughtful—serene,—
And many fond images played on my mind.

At a twinkling the scenes of my childhood appeared;
Some cheerful—some dark, and embittered with tears,—
The friends which my youth with affection revered,
The tie often riven—young love's sighs and fears.

The present and future alternately claimed,
A tear—a fond hope, which a cloud often veild;
Can the present a sign for the future be named,
Or the morrow yet prosper the hopes that have failed?

I marked, with a sigh, on futurity's page
The path-way with many of life's thorns was clothed;

Brooding ill's unforeseen in my earlier age
The current of bliss with their poison alloyed.

On the ocean before me sailed many a bark,—
Which through tempests and calms sped its chequering way,
And sunk in the gulf—great—mysterious, and dark—

Never more to appear in the light of our day!

Creation still smiled—and new ages appeared,—
Thought still followed thought in their unceasing sway,

It was done!—Now the last trumpet's echoes were heard.

Earth and sea gave their dead,—nature melted away!!

PASQUIN.

August, 1822.

THE CRUCIFIXION.

Imitated from the Italian of Crescembini.

BY JAMES MONTGOMERY.

I ask'd the Heavens;—“What fo'e to God hath done?”

“This unexampled deed!”—The Heavens exclaim,

“Twas Man;—and we in horror snatch'd the sun
From such a spectacle of guilt and shame.”

I ask'd the Sea;—the Sea in fury boil'd,

And answer'd with his voice of storms,—“Twas
Man;—

“My waves in panic at his crime recoil'd,

Disclosed the abyss, and from the centre ran.”

I ask'd the Earth.—“The Earth replied aghast,

“Twas Man;—and such strange pang's my bother'd,

That still I groan and shudder at the past.”

—To Man, gay, smiling, thoughtless Man, I went,

And ask'd him next;—“He turn'd a scornful eye,

Shook his proud head, and dign'd me no reply.

FOR THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.

MARRIAGE—a Parody.

To woo or not to woo?—That's the question;
Whether 'tis wiser in a Man to suffer

The sorrows and pinches of a straightened fortune,

Or to take arms 'gainst some rich widow's suitor,

And, by opposing, beat them. To woo—to wed—

No more; and by a Wedding say we silence.

The creditor, and a thousand loud mouth'd peats

That bark at poor men—tho' the consummation

Were little to be wish'd. To woo—to wed!

To wed—perchance to be hen-peck'd. There's the rub!

For in that union what jars may come,

When we have shuffed on the fatal yoke,

Must give me pause. There's the respect

That makes our credulity last so long!

For who would bear the plagues of poverty,

The Fair's neglect; the Baudies contumely;

The pangs that diana inflict; the laws pursuit;

The death of dinner, and the mournful waste

That active time in galligaskins wears,

When he himself might his quietus make

With a gold ring? Who'd live a subaltern,

To drill and dress under a martinet,

But that the dread of something after marriage,

(That kno'nd insatiable, from whose nose

No sufferer can be freed,) plucks the will,

And makes us rather bear our own mishaps

Than fly to others that a Wife would bring.—

Thus Women do make noddles of us all;

And thus the bare attempt at a flirtation

Is strangled by the terror of a match,

And many a pleasant, freedom-loving youth,

With this regard his courtship turns awry,

And shuns the name of Husband. T. P.

FOR THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.

THE SOLITAIRE—No. III.

“The worthiest people are most injured by Slanderers, as we usually find that to be the best fruit which the birds have been picking at.”

DEAN SWIFT.

There are many persons whose chief pleasure is to wound the reputation of their neighbours. They will descend from your public to your private character—from the affairs of the parlour down to the petty concerns of the kitchen. This mean and ungenerous spirit; these ill-natured humours; this more than fiend-like disposition is so extremely base and absurd, that if instances of it did not daily occur through life it would be almost impossible for a man of sense to believe them. How abject and mean must that man be who cannot converse but upon the vices of his fellow beings—who is always ready to report any thing to their disadvantage, and careful to conceal whatever good qualities they may possess. Slander is like a heavy shower, and though you may stand dry under the pent-house of your conscience, the world does not see it, and what is worse they will not see it. Men in this respect differ from angels—they having more joy over one fallen sinner than over a hundred just persons. It is in the power of every person to preserve his probity, but no man living can say, that he can preserve his reputation while there are so many evil tongues in the world ready to blast the fairest character, and so many open ears ready to receive their reports. Cicero in one of his pleadings, defending his client from general scandal, says:—“There are many who have particular engagements to the prosecutor; there are many who are known to have ill-will to him for whom I appear; there are many who are naturally addicted to defamation, and envious of any good to any man, who may have contributed to spread reports of this kind; for nothing is so swift as scandal, nothing is more easily sent abroad, nothing received with more welcome, nothing diffuses itself so universally. I shall not desire, that if any report to our disadvantage has any ground for it, you would overlook or extenuate it: But if there be any thing advanced, without a person can say whence he had it, or which is attested by one who forgot who told him it, or who had it from one of so little consideration that he did not then think it worth his notice, all such testimony as these, I know you will think too slight to have any credit against the innocence and honour of your fellow citizen.” G.

It is known to many of young readers, that one of the best productions our language affords, and which Dr. Young justly calls “a mass of sense,” was written to defray the funeral expenses of the author's mother, and many instances of the kind may be cited to show that necessity is the principal inducement to application. It has been said by some that the learned authors were anxious to range at its own will, the more it has been suffered to indulge in the gratification and amusements afforded by wealth, the more averse it becomes to the tedious application that is necessary to be given to the principals of science. While the man of letters is spending the younger and more vigorous part of his life in the seclusion of study, the man of wealth is enjoying all the ease and luxury of life. He sits enthroned amid the dazzling profusion of grandeur, from which he looks down upon the admiring multitude. The student long labours in obscurity, and when he comes forth among men, to a great proportion he must still remain unknown. The wealthy man is seen, known and admired by all, but the learned understood only by the few. What wonder, then, if learning should flourish most among the poorer class! or, rather, what wonder if the wealthy are not willing to give up the ease and happiness wealth affords for the more uncertain attainment of knowledge.

It is known to many of young readers, that one of the best productions our language affords, and which Dr. Young justly calls “a mass of sense,” was written to defray the funeral expenses of the author's mother, and many instances of the kind may be cited to show that necessity is the principal inducement to application. It has been said by some that the learned authors were anxious to range at its own will, the more it has been suffered to indulge in the gratification and amusements afforded by wealth, the more averse it becomes to the tedious application that is necessary to be given to the principals of science. While the man of letters is spending the younger and more vigorous part of his life in the seclusion of study, the man of wealth is enjoying all the ease and luxury of life. He sits enthroned amid the dazzling profusion of grandeur, from which he looks down upon the admiring multitude. The student long labours in obscurity, and when he comes forth among men, to a great proportion he must still remain unknown. The wealthy man is seen, known and admired by all, but the learned understood only by the few. What wonder, then, if learning should flourish most among the poorer class! or, rather, what wonder if the wealthy are not willing to give up the ease and happiness wealth affords for the more uncertain attainment of knowledge.

It is known to many of young readers, that one of the best productions our language affords, and which Dr. Young justly calls “a mass of sense,” was written to defray the funeral expenses of the author's mother, and many instances of the kind may be cited to show that necessity is the principal inducement to application. It has been said by some that the learned authors were anxious to range at its own will, the more it has been suffered to indulge in the gratification and amusements afforded by wealth, the more averse it becomes to the tedious application that is necessary to be given to the principals of science. While the man of letters is spending the younger and more vigorous part of his life in the seclusion of study, the man of wealth is enjoying all the ease and luxury of life. He sits enthroned amid the dazzling profusion of grandeur, from which he looks down upon the admiring multitude. The student long labours in obscurity, and when he comes forth among men, to a great proportion he must still remain unknown. The wealthy man is seen, known and admired by all, but the learned understood only by the few. What wonder, then, if learning should flourish most among the poorer class! or, rather, what wonder if the wealthy are not willing to give up the ease and happiness wealth affords for the more uncertain attainment of knowledge.

It is known to many of young readers, that one of the best productions our language affords, and which Dr. Young justly calls “a mass of sense,” was written to defray the funeral expenses of the author's mother, and many instances of the kind may be cited to show that necessity is the principal inducement to application. It has been said by some that the learned authors were anxious to range at its own will, the more it has been suffered to indulge in the gratification and amusements afforded by wealth, the more averse it becomes to the tedious application that is necessary to be given to the principals of science. While the man of letters is spending the younger and more vigorous part of his life in the seclusion of study, the man of wealth is enjoying all the ease and luxury of life. He sits enthroned amid the dazzling profusion of grandeur, from which he looks down upon the admiring multitude. The student long labours in obscurity, and when he comes forth among men, to a great proportion he must still remain unknown. The wealthy man is seen, known and admired by all, but the learned understood only by the few. What wonder, then, if learning should flourish most among the poorer class! or, rather, what wonder if the wealthy are not willing to give up the ease and happiness wealth affords for the more uncertain attainment of knowledge.

It is known to many of young readers, that one of the best productions our language affords, and which Dr. Young justly calls “a mass of sense,” was written to defray the funeral expenses of the author's mother, and many instances of the kind may be cited to show that necessity is the principal inducement to application. It has been said by some that the learned authors were anxious to range at its own will, the more it has been suffered to indulge in the gratification and amusements afforded by wealth, the more averse it becomes to the tedious application that is necessary to be given to the principals of science. While the man of letters is spending the younger and more vigorous part of his life in the seclusion of study, the man of wealth is enjoying all the ease and luxury of life. He sits enthroned amid the dazzling profusion of grandeur, from which he looks down upon the admiring multitude. The student long labours in obscurity, and when he comes forth among men, to a great proportion he must still remain unknown. The wealthy man is seen, known and admired by all, but the learned understood only by the few. What wonder, then, if learning should flourish most among the poorer class! or, rather, what wonder if the wealthy are not willing to give up the ease and happiness wealth affords for the more uncertain attainment of knowledge.

It is known to many of young readers, that one of the best productions our language affords, and which Dr. Young justly calls “a mass of sense,” was written to defray the funeral expenses of the author's mother, and many instances of the kind may be cited to show that necessity is the principal inducement to application. It has been said by some that the learned authors were anxious to range at its own will, the more it has been suffered to indulge in the gratification and amusements afforded by wealth, the more averse it becomes to the tedious application that is necessary to be given to the principals of science. While the man of letters is spending the younger and more vigorous part of his life in the seclusion of study, the man of wealth is enjoying all the ease and luxury of life. He sits enthroned amid the dazzling profusion of grandeur, from which he looks down upon the admiring multitude. The student long labours in obscurity, and when he comes forth among men, to a great proportion he must still remain unknown. The wealthy man is seen, known and admired by all, but the learned understood only by the few. What wonder, then, if learning should flourish most among the poorer class! or, rather, what wonder if the wealthy are not willing to give up the ease and happiness wealth affords for the more uncertain attainment of knowledge.

It is known to many of young readers, that one of the best productions our language affords, and which Dr. Young justly calls “a mass of sense,” was written to defray the funeral expenses of the author's mother, and many instances of the kind may be cited to show that necessity is the principal inducement to application. It has been said by some that the learned authors were anxious to range at its own will, the more it has been suffered to indulge in the gratification and amusements afforded by wealth, the more averse it becomes to the tedious application that is necessary to be given to the principals of science. While the man of letters is spending the younger and more vigorous part of his life in the seclusion of study, the man of wealth is enjoying all the ease and luxury of life. He sits enthroned amid the dazzling profusion of grandeur, from which he looks down upon the admiring multitude. The student long labours in obscurity, and when he comes forth among men, to a great proportion he must still remain unknown. The wealthy man is seen, known and admired by all, but the learned understood only by the few. What wonder, then, if learning should flourish most among the poorer class! or, rather, what wonder if the wealthy are not willing to give up the ease and happiness wealth affords for the more uncertain attainment of knowledge.

It is known to many of young readers, that one of the best productions our language affords, and which Dr. Young justly calls “a mass of sense,” was written to defray the funeral expenses of the author's mother, and many instances of the kind may be cited to show that necessity is the principal inducement to application. It has been said by some that the learned authors were anxious to range at its own will, the more it has been suffered to indulge in the gratification and amusements afforded by wealth, the more averse it becomes to the tedious application that is necessary to be given to the principals of science. While the man of letters is spending the younger and more vigorous part of his life in the seclusion of study, the man of wealth is enjoying all the ease and luxury of life. He sits enthroned amid the dazzling profusion of grandeur, from which he looks down upon the admiring multitude. The student long labours in obscurity, and when he comes forth among men, to a great proportion he must still remain unknown. The wealthy man is seen, known and admired by all, but the learned understood only by the few. What wonder, then, if learning should flourish most among the poorer class! or, rather, what wonder if the wealthy are not willing to give up the ease and happiness wealth affords for the more uncertain attainment of knowledge.

It is known to many of young readers, that one of the best productions our language affords, and which Dr. Young justly calls “a mass of sense,” was written to defray the funeral expenses of the author's mother, and many instances of the kind may be cited to show that necessity is the principal inducement to application. It has been said by some that the learned authors were anxious to range at its own will, the more it has been suffered to indulge in the gratification and amusements afforded by wealth, the more averse it becomes to the tedious application that is necessary to be given to the principals of science. While the man of letters is spending the younger and more vigorous part of his life in the seclusion of study, the man of wealth is enjoying all the ease and luxury of life. He sits enthroned amid the dazzling profusion of grandeur, from which he looks down upon the admiring multitude. The student long labours in obscurity, and when he comes forth among men, to a great proportion he must still remain unknown. The wealthy man is seen, known and admired by all, but the learned understood only by the few. What wonder, then, if learning should flourish most among the poorer class! or, rather, what wonder if the wealthy are not willing to give up the ease and happiness wealth affords for the more uncertain attainment of knowledge.

It is known to many of young readers, that one of the best productions our language affords, and which Dr. Young justly calls “a mass of sense,” was written to defray the funeral expenses of the author's mother, and many instances of the kind may be cited to show that necessity is the principal inducement to application. It has been said by some that the learned authors were anxious to range at its own will, the more it has been suffered to indulge in the gratification and amusements afforded by wealth, the more averse it becomes to the tedious application that is necessary to be given to the principals of science. While the man of letters is spending the younger and more vigorous part of his life in the seclusion of study, the man of wealth is enjoying all the ease and luxury of life. He sits enthroned amid the dazzling profusion of grandeur, from which he looks down upon the admiring multitude. The student long labours in obscurity, and when he comes forth among men, to a great proportion he must still remain unknown. The wealthy man is seen, known and admired by all, but the learned understood only by the few. What wonder, then, if learning should flourish most among the poorer class! or, rather, what wonder if the wealthy are not willing to give up the ease and happiness wealth affords for the more uncertain attainment of knowledge.

The Philadelphia Index;
OR DIRECTORY FOR 1823.
To appear early in January—Price one dollar and a half.

The public are respectfully informed, that the subscriber has made arrangements for the publication of a DIRECTORY, at the commencement (say first month) of the ensuing year. The orthography, heretofore the source of so many errors, shall be particularly attended to, and every exertion used to make it correct. Having, during the last twenty-five years, been more or less engrossed in a manner conducive to a thorough acquaintance with the materials of what ought to form a correct Directory, the Editor presumes that his present undertaking will be found, at least, inferior to none of his predecessors. He disclaims all participation in former Directories, as well as supplements, second editions, &c.

It would be altogether useless to say anything relative to the utility of a Directory—no house, public or private, should be without one; much less those in business. All Societies (Religious, Mechanical, &c.) will be noted; and it is respectfully hoped that they will furnish themselves with copies;—indeed, the nature of the work would seem to claim a place on the table of every So- ciety.

Proprietors, Agents, and Masters of the different lines of Water Packets, Steam Boats, &c., would add to the gratification of their friends by having some copies on board. To those bound here, it would, it is presumed, be a great mean of furthering their inquiries relative to the residence and present business of many of their friends and correspondents.

The Editor takes this opportunity of returning his most fervent thanks to the gentlemen Directors of all the city Banks, for their generous encouragement—many having subscribed, for five, and none for less than two copies—This, added to other prospects, gives a promising assurance of a goodly number of readers; it will, of course, be an advantageous medium for advertisers—it affording them an opportunity of exhibiting their publications to a large portion of the public eye, for one year at least.

Advertisements inserted at the rate of five dollars per page; half a page three; and a quarter of a page two dollars.

The work will be published by Mr. ROBERT DESHVER, No. 110 Walnut street, where subscriptions, advertisements, &c., will be gratefully received. It is requested that all removals, formations and dissolutions of partnerships, changes in any way affecting the former business name, may be left as above, in all the fore half of the month of December, where they shall receive every attention. Also, that the Presidents or Secretaries of the different Societies would furnish the names of their three principal officers, viz. President, Secretary and Treasurer.

The Officers of the different Fire Engine and Hose Associations, are requested to furnish the Publisher, about the above period, with the names of the Officers, the places where the several Engines and Hoses are situated, and such other con- cise particulars as they may feel desirous of communicating.

Those who desire it, may explore, at Mr. Robert Deshver's Back-store, in a book prepared for the purpose, the names, alphabetically arranged, as taken down the week previous.

Mr. Thomas S. Manning, Printer, No. 14 South Sixth street, will also receive subscriptions, advertisements, &c., &c.

Patrick Feeney, Printer,
Aug 17—
New Leghorn Store,
No. 31, SOUTH SECOND STREET.

The Store lately occupied by S. G. Estep and Co. is now occupied by Mrs. KNELLAND, who has just opened a large assortment of gentleman's, boys' and children's Leghorn Hats, common Straw and Chip Hats, ladies' Leghorns and Split Straw Bonnets, with a variety of Fancy Goods.

June 8—
GEORGE ALLCHIN,

BOOK BINDER and GILDER on the edges of Books, Letter and Filiage Paper. Paper blacked on the edges for mounting, at No. 163 Vine street, third door above Fifth street, north side—Where he continues to manufacture Backgammon Tables and Chess Boards.

Orders from any part of the United States executed on reasonable terms.

Mr. 4—
FREDERICK KLETT,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL
Druggist, Oil and Colourman,
No. 261, N. E. corner of Callowhill & Second st.

RESPECTFULLY offers to Physicians, Country Merchants, Drapers and Foliars, a general assortment of Drugs, Medicines, and Dye Stuffs; such as Logwood, Red and Nicaragua Wood, Fus-tic, Turmeric, Coppers, Verdigris, Madder, Cudbear, Wood, Oil Vitriol, Aqua Fortis, Muriatic Acid, Cochineal, &c. Dry and Ground White Lead, Red Lead, Orange Mineral, Lithia, &c., Vermilion, Prussian Blue, Chrome Yellow, Rose Pink, Stone Orange, Philadelphia and Patent Green, Umber, Whiting, &c., with a general assortment of Window Glass.

The above articles will be sold on reasonable terms. Prompt attention will be paid to all orders which he may be favoured with, and packed in the most careful manner.

July 1—
CARD.

JOHN CARTER, Jun., respectfully informs the public, that his establishment on the Bank of the River Schuylkill, near the FALLS, formerly known by the name of Mendenhall's, has been opened since the commencement of the Spring season, and that he is ready to receive those visitors who may be disposed to honor him with their custom and commands.

He takes leave to acquaint the ladies and gentlemen of the metropolis and its vicinity, that he is amply provided with every species of refreshments, and that he can supply them upon the most immediate requisition with Coffee, Tea and Sandwiches. Fish of all those denominations, with which that river abounds; Anchovy-Toast—Pickled Salmon—and all kinds of Relishes which it may please their fancy to demand, with the proper paraphernalia to each.

Gentlemen are informed that the grounds are disposed as to afford sufficient room and accommodation for Quoits and Croquet, and other Ball Games, and that Hot or Cold Dinners can be served up for them at the shortest notice.

The drive to his place on the western side of the river, is extremely romantic—those who prefer the Ridge Road are informed that a Flat Boat is in constant readiness to cross them, and a new and elegant set of Carriages may be had at the Stables, Prune Street, above and below Fifth.

June 22—
Teeth One Dollar.

WILLIAMS performs every operation on the Teeth complete for $1. Filing, extracting and plugging a single tooth, 25 cents, if plugged with gold, 50 cents. Williams fixes teeth in the mouth, warranted to give satisfaction, for $1.50 a tooth. Williams gives information from the Italian, French, English and American authorities, calculated to insure good teeth for life. He also saves teeth in the same way his own were saved, the least painful of any of the English ways; there are three ways, by Hunter, Fox and Norton.

B. WILLIAMS, Dentist,

161 Vine street, near Fifth.

FOR SALE,

A GOOD substantial second hand GIG. Also a most well made CHAIR, which has only run one season, with Harness to both. Enquire of

David Coggins,

No. 80, Chestnut street.

Foreign Intelligence.

From the New York Commercial Advertiser.

TEN DAYS LATER FROM ENGLAND.

By the arrival at Boston of the ship Triton, Capt. Bussey, in 31 days from Liverpool, the editors of the Commercial Advertiser have received from their attentive correspondents, files of London papers to the 10th and Liverpool of the 11th of July.

The contents of the foreign journals, from which we have made extracts, are of a more warlike aspect than those received by the last arrival, and strengthen the opinion, which we have never yet seen cause to abandon, that the Turks will not agree to the terms proposed by Russia until force is employed. The horrible massacre of the Greeks at Scio, has excited the greatest indignation at St. Petersburg and Moscow, and is stated to have produced a change in the views of Alexander, no way favourable to the continuance of peace. It such has been the effect produced by this barbarous policy, what are we to expect from the account of the more recent slaughter, in cold blood, at Constantinople, of the Greeks, residing in that city, who had offered themselves, and were accepted as hostages, for the good behaviour of their few remaining brethren who escaped the butchering knives of the ferocious Mussulmen? Alexander himself may be exiled by the pressing representations made to him as to the dangers which threaten "legitimacy" by the establishment of free governments in the East. But we have yet to learn that the nobles of Russia, whose influence at any time can control the decisions of the sovereign, are disposed to shut their eyes to the rights of humanity, and to allow those of their own faith to be exterminated, without making one effort to stay the hands of their bloodthirsty persecutors.

We are glad to observe that success continues to attend the arms of Greece, and that there is some reason for believing the Porte is at last convinced, that all the attempts to reclaim the Morea are untenable. So confident do the Greeks appear of ultimate success, that they have actually issued a decree, declaring Turkey to be in a state of blockade.

We were always of opinion, that the disturbances in Spain of which we have heard, so much of late, were occasioned by the machinations of the enemies of the Constitutional system, and not the consequence of the change which had taken place. The Address of the Cortes, traced those excitements to emissaries from France, which had roused the indignation of the Spaniards to so high a pitch against the French in general, that Madrid was no longer safe for their Ambassador. Notwithstanding, the disaffected had again been at work. The answer of the King to the Cortes, is of a character to excite favorable anticipations, and to induce a persuasion that whatever may be his own secret wishes, or those of the enemies of liberty, all their attempts to create discord will fail of their intended effects.

The agent to whom the money belonged has since pursued the winner, arrested him and he is now in confinement. The owner of the Alley was presented before the Grand Jury, and his license has been taken from him.

FROM THE NEW YORK AMERICAN, &c. 12.

The brig Vermont arrived yesterday at quarantine from Blakely. Capt. Nichols, late master, (formerly sailing master of the Washington 74) who has a family at Brooklyn, died on the 7th instant, of yellow fever, when off the Delaware. A coloured man, named Thos. Hicks, a native of Long Island, died on the 7th of the same disease. The vessel came into port with only one man on board able to do duty, four sick men were taken to the hospital. The mate states that they were all sick and helpless on deck at the same time. Fortunately the vessel was favoured with mild weather, or they would all have been lost. When they sailed from Blakely they were all in good health.

FROM THE NEW YORK GAZETTE.

THE SPRINGS.

There were about fifteen hundred visitors at Saratoga and Ballston on Monday last. The governor, generals Van Rensselaer and Lewis, and other distinguished individuals, are at the former place, and the Spanish minister and Joseph Bonaparte at the latter. The principal public houses at Saratoga are filled with visitors, the greater part of whom are induced to prolong their stay in consequence of the various reports that reach them of the fever in this city, and which are frequently rendered alarming by the spirit of exaggeration exhibited by their narrators. The British minister, Mr. Canning, and suite, arrived at Saratoga on Monday.

FROM THE NEW YORK EVENING POST.

HEALTH OF THE CITY.

It was well known that the object of Lucien Bonaparte, Prince of Canino, to Brussels, was the marriage of his eldest son with the eldest daughter of the Count de Survilliers (Joseph Bonaparte.) This marriage was celebrated the day before yesterday at the town Hall, and the Church, with the usual ceremonies.

BRUSSELS, July 1.

The Duke of York, it is said, has made over his estate at Outlands, with all the growing crops, &c., to trustees, for the payment of his debts.

Miss M. Tree's benefit at Covent Garden Theatre, drew the largest amount that has been received on any night of the present season.

A duel was fought near London on Friday last, between Capt. O'G. aly, M. P., attended by the Hon. John Lowther, and James Grattan, Esq. M. P., attended by the Hon. Charles Howard Butler Clarke, when after an exchange of shots the seconds interceded, and the parties shook hands before they left the ground.

WILLIAM CRAWFORD, a wealthy farmer of Fal- lowfield township, Washington county, was committed to jail in this place, for the murder of his son, Henry, the day before, at about the age of 28 years. This horrid deed is said to have had its origin in a disagreement which existed for some time between old Mr. Crawford and his wife, the mother of the deceased, she living at the time the murder was committed in the same house with the son, separate from the residence of the old man.—On the morning previous to his putting into execution his hellish purpose, it appears that he had declared he would kill his son that day. The instrument of death (a gun) was attempted to be wrested from him by some person present, who desisted on the old man's threatening to kill him if he did not cease to interfere. He deliberately took aim, we are informed, placing the gun against the cheek of the door, before which his son was sitting, and shot him dead on the spot.

In addition to the above particulars, a person who was present at the time says, the deceased had been repeatedly threatened by his father, but from the age and infirmities of the old man, he apprehended no danger except from the gun, which he had put out of order for his security; the father, however, had procured some person who repaired it.

MEXICO.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Mexico, to his friend in Lexington, (Kan.) dated City of Mexico, June 7, 1822.

"This is the most resourceful, richest, poorest country at this moment, perhaps, in the universe. The climate here, within the tropics, is much cooler than near New Orleans. The city lies on the north side of a dead flat of rich low ground, surrounded by lofty mountains, and from 15 to 20 miles in diameter, in grass or under miserable cultivation, and ditched and canalized in all directions. The foot of the mountains is ornamented with numerous villages, and numberless churches, with lofty domes and spires, the interior of which present a blaze of the precious metals; yet the obstruction of the mines, the failure of commerce, the interruption of the miserable agriculture of the country, and the abolition of internal taxes, to popularize the revolution, have prostrated the finances of the country, and left the richest of its inhabitants in poverty. Circulating coin (specie) is hardly more scarce in your Lexington.

Four hundred dollars reward is offered by Knower & Hacen, of Montreal, for the apprehension of Benjamin Ruggles, by profession a Tanner, a native of Harrisburg, in the state of Pennsylvania. He absconded from Quebec about the 7th July, having defrauded his endorsers and creditors of a large sum of money, and is supposed to have gone either to Halifax, or the United States. He took with him about 6000 pounds, mostly in guineas or British gold.

3. Friendly Fracas.—It appears from the Nantucket papers, that a good deal of excitement had taken place there, in consequence of a complaint having been preferred against a Quaker, named William Holley, for assault on Jeremiah Austin, another member of the Friends' Meeting. Holley having been arrested, an immense crowd followed him to the meeting-house, where he was taken for examination by a justice of the peace. By the evidence, it turned out, that Holley at the last preparative meeting of the Friends, took said Jeremiah from the steps of the said meeting-house, and prevented his entering the house on that day. Holley's defence was, that he was authorized so to do by a committee appointed by the members of Friend's Society, for that purpose. It appeared on evidence, that Jeremiah had been very troublesome heretofore in the monthly and preparative meetings, which had induced the members to adopt this measure. Holley was therefore acquitted.

FROM THE BOSTON EVENING GAZETTE.

A gross cheat was practised on Saturday last, upon one of the city Meal-men, at a shop in the N. part of the town. He offered some meal for sale, when bystander engaged in conversation with him and invited him to try his luck at the Bowling Alley, which was attached to the shop.—Having won a few dollars, he was about to retire, but was induced to play longer, upon large odds being offered by his antagonist upon the share-bait. In conclusion he was fleeced of his money amounting to $150.—It afterwards appeared that the pins had lines attached to them by which the fellows employed in setting them up for the players could pull them down so as to win the bot at their pleasure without being detected.

The agent to whom the money belonged has since pursued the winner, arrested him and he is now in confinement. The owner of the Alley was presented before the Grand Jury, and his license has been taken from him.

FROM THE NEW YORK AMERICAN, &c. 12.

The brig Vermont arrived yesterday at quarantine from Blakely. Capt. Nichols, late master, (formerly sailing master of the Washington 74) who has a family at Brooklyn, died on the 7th instant, of yellow fever, when off the Delaware. A coloured man, named Thos. Hicks, a native of Long Island, died on the 7th of the same disease.

The vessel came into port with only one man on board able to do duty, four sick men were taken to the hospital. The mate states that they were all sick and helpless on deck at the same time. Fortunately the vessel was favoured with mild weather, or they would all have been lost. When they sailed from Blakely they were all in good health.

FROM THE NEW YORK GAZETTE.

THE SPRINGS.

There were about fifteen hundred visitors at Saratoga and Ballston on Monday last. The governor, generals Van Rensselaer and Lewis, and other distinguished individuals, are at the former place, and the Spanish minister and Joseph Bonaparte at the latter. The principal public houses at Saratoga are filled with visitors, the greater part of whom are induced to prolong their stay in consequence of the various reports that reach them of the fever in this city, and which are frequently rendered alarming by the spirit of exaggeration exhibited by their narrators. The British minister, Mr. Canning, and suite, arrived at Saratoga on Monday.

FROM THE NEW YORK EVENING POST.

HEALTH OF THE CITY.

The reports for several days have been so favorable, and such efficient measures have at last been taken by the board of health to prevent the fever from spreading, that we begin to hope it will be arrested in its progress. No case has yet occurred that has not been clearly traced to the infected district, now enclosed by order of the board, and with which no communication is allowed. No vessels from sickly foreign ports are permitted to come to our wharves; and in short, every means which prudence could suggest has been adopted to put an effectual stop to the disease. Persons in the country, whose business may call them to the city, need not be under the least apprehension, if they will only avoid the infected district. The alarm which has been sounded abroad is certainly greater than facts will warrant. The number of deaths are not as great as they were last year at this time, when there was no yellow fever.

FROM THE NEW YORK EVENING POST.

HEALTH OF THE CITY.

It was well known that the object of Lucien Bonaparte, Prince of Canino, to Brussels, was the marriage of his eldest son with the eldest daughter of the Count de Survilliers (Joseph Bonaparte.) This marriage was celebrated the day before yesterday at the town Hall, and the Church, with the usual ceremonies.

BRUSSELS, July 1.

The Duke of York, it is said, has made over his estate at Outlands, with all the growing crops, &c., to trustees, for the payment of his debts.

Miss M. Tree's benefit at Covent Garden Theatre, drew the largest amount that has been received on any night of the present season.

A duel was fought near London on Friday last, between Capt. O'G. aly, M. P., attended by the Hon. John Lowther, and James Grattan, Esq. M. P., attended by the Hon. Charles Howard Butler Clarke, when after an exchange of shots the seconds interceded, and the parties shook hands before they left the ground.

WILLIAM CRAWFORD, a wealthy farmer of Fal-

lowfield township, Washington county, was committed to jail in this place, for the murder of his son, Henry, the day before, at about the age of 28 years. This horrid deed is said to have had its origin in a disagreement which existed for some time between old Mr. Crawford and his wife, the mother of the deceased, she living at the time the murder was committed in the same house with the son, separate from the residence of the old man.—On the morning previous to his putting into execution his hellish purpose, it appears that he had declared he would kill his son that day. The instrument of death (a gun) was attempted to be wrested from him by some person present, who desisted on the old man's threatening to kill him if he did not cease to interfere. He deliberately took aim, we are informed, placing the gun against the cheek of the door, before which his son was sitting, and shot him dead on the spot.

In addition to the above particulars, a person who was present at the time says, the deceased had been repeatedly threatened by his father, but from the age and infirmities of the old man, he apprehended no danger except from the gun, which he had put out of order for his security; the father, however, had procured some person who repaired it.

WILLIAM CRAWFORD, a wealthy farmer of Fal-

lowfield township, Washington county, was committed to jail in this place, for the murder of his son, Henry, the day before, at about the age of 28 years. This horrid

deed is said to have had its origin in a disagreement which existed for some time between old Mr. Crawford and his wife, the mother of the deceased, she living at the time the murder was committed in the same house with the son, separate from the residence of the old man.—On the morning previous to his putting into execution his hellish purpose, it appears that he had declared he would kill his son that day. The instrument of death (a gun) was attempted to be wrested from him by some person present, who desisted on the old man's threatening to kill him if he did not cease to interfere. He deliberately took aim, we are informed, placing the gun against the cheek of the door, before which his son was sitting, and shot him dead on the spot.

In addition to the above particulars, a person who was present at the time says, the deceased had been repeatedly threatened by his father, but from the age and infirmities of the old man, he apprehended no danger except from the gun, which he had put out of order for his security; the father, however, had procured some person who repaired it.

WILLIAM CRAWFORD, a wealthy farmer of Fal-

The Evening Post.

PHILADELPHIA.

Saturday, August 17, 1822.

Friend Minor, of the Village Record, in noticing the proposals by Bennett & Walton, Booksellers, of this city, for publishing a new and highly improved edition of BROOKE'S GAZETTEER, has the following just observations:—

"We intended before now to have called the attention of our readers to it. To us it appears to be one of the most necessary books that can be brought into a family."

A dictionary containing the names of all the Countries, Nations, Kingdoms, States, Counties, Mountains, Rivers, Islands, &c. in the world, with a short description stating the situation of, and what ever is remarkable in relation to each, it will be seen at once, must not only be valuable to the children, but useful to all; for how often is it that in reading we find the names of places mentioned, the situation of which we are ignorant of. A Gazetteer in the house explains the difficulty in a moment. We have never been very forward in recommending particular books, but we feel confident that whoever purchases this, will think their money well laid out."

All intercourse between this city and New-York, has been interdicted by an order of the Board of Health.

The Hon. Jonathan Russell, has pronounced a bill of indictment before the Grand Jury of the city of New-York, against Seth Hunt, Esq. for the felony of Malicious Prosecution.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

Mr. Randolph, of President, dined with

Mr. K. C. B. C. on

Wednesday.

THE OLLIO.

"Variety's the very spice of life,
That gives it all its flavor."

Epitaph on a young man at Chichester, E.
"Art thou in health and spirits gay?
I too was so, the other day,
And thought myself from death as safe
As thou who readst my epitaph."

Phiz.—Mr. Andrew Cherry, the performer, was written to, a few years ago, with an offer of a very capital engagement from a stranger, who, on a former occasion, had not behaved altogether well to him.—Cherry sent him word, that he had been hit by him once, and he was resolved that he should not make two bites of a cherry.

The Joke.—When Lord Townshend was Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, the then provost of Dublin lost no opportunity of repeating his solicitations for places: "My dear Halsey," said his lordship, "you have a great many things, and I have nothing to give but a majority of Dragons." "I accept it then," replied the provost.—"What, you take a majority?" answered his lordship, "gods, it is impossible, I only meant it as a joke." "And I accept it," replied the provost, "merely to show you how well I can take a joke."

Excellent Motto.—Augustine had a few lines written on his tablet, intimating that whoever attacked the character of the absent, were to be excluded. What a pity such a motto is not more popular at present.

Cookery.—Of all the fools of the air (says the "Cook's Oracle"), command me to a slice of beef, for there's marrow for the master, meat for the mistress, gristle for the servants, and bones for the dogs.

FOREIGN ARTICLES.

A REMARKABLE CIRCUMSTANCE.

In the year 1793, a woman acting as cook to a lady at Northallerton, in cutting a turnip, found in the heart of it a gold ring, and immediately made her mistress acquainted with an extraordinary circumstance. The lady sent for the gardener's wife, and asked her whether the ring she then had upon her finger was the same she had been married with. The woman replied that it was not, as she had unfortunately lost her wedding ring about a year or two after her marriage, from off her finger, whilst weeding in the garden. She was then asked if she should know the ring again if it was shown to her; to this she replied that the ring she had lost had a particular mark on it, which she described. The ring found in the heart of the turnip was then produced, and was proved, from the mark, to be the identical ring lost by Mrs. Wood, the gardener's wife, and immediately restored to her, after it had been in the ground 10 or 12 years.—London paper.

Sullen Madness.—At Chelmsford fair, lately, during the grimaces and buffoonries exhibited in front of one of the stables, the clown went raving mad. He jumped off the stage, and ran through the town, followed by a number of boys who were ignorant of the man's mental derangement, until he got into a field, where he fixed himself against the gate-post, and literally tore the scalp from his head; and had not some persons secured him, he would totally have destroyed himself. He now lies in a state which affords but little hope of his recovery.

Thady Doooley, a respectable farmer, died last May near the Hill of Allen, county of Kildare, Ireland, at the age of 126 years and three months.—His faculties were perfect to the last; and he could, until about six months before his death, join in any sports of the field. He was married a second time about 19 years ago, at the age of 107 to a woman of 31 years of age.

An Affectionate Rattlesnake.—The Petersburgh Intelligencer announces an attractive exhibition of serpents in that city. Among them is a full-grown Rattle-snake, (perhaps the most deadly poisonous of the serpentine race,) upwards of four feet in length, five or six inches in circumference, with its fangs and rattles entire, an completely domesticated as to be handled with perfect safety, as to coil itself upon the neck and kiss the cheeks of its master—in short, to be as completely under his command as his dog, and to manifest the same grateful affection towards him! There is no disputation about taste; but it would require some time to reconcile us to a live Rattlesnake for a cravat, or even to receive a kiss from such a living animal.

"What's this dull town to me?
Bob's not here."

Robert Adair, who was at Poughkeepsie, (N. Y.) with a load of peaches, died in his boat on the wharf on the night of the 4th instant, in a state of intoxication.

The Bath Springs Property,
In the Borough of Bristol, on the Isle of Wight,
ONE of the most excellent and famed Mineral Springs in the United States, as well as convenient and pleasing abodes for a private family, and capable of easily containing more, is offered for Sale or Rent, at a reasonable rate. One or several rooms alone can be rented, and convenient stabling for a large equipage. No other property in the Union can afford the same advantages for a seminary. Apply on the premises.
June 29—3m

CHARLES M'ARTHUR,
Silk, Woolen, and Cotton Dyer, &c. &c.
CONTINUES at the old established stand, No. 31 UNION STREET—where all orders in his line will be punctually attended to.

Wholesale and Retail Brewery.
THE Subscriber informs his friends and the public, that they can be supplied with FRESH BEER and ALE, at the following prices, viz from five gallons and upwards, at the rate of 18d cents per gallon—Table Beer at 6d cents per gallon, Yeast, &c. WM. STEVENS,
No. 61, corner of Gray's Alley and Front street.
Sept 15—4f

Hugh Downing,
CABINET, Chair and Venetian Blind Maker, No. 16 NORTH SECOND STREET, between Market and Arch, opposite Coomb's Alley. Having just commenced business, he flatters himself by promptitude and neatness in the execution of all orders entrusted to him, to merit a share of public favour.
June 15—6m

BENJAMIN RICHARDSON,
LATE from Sheffield, File Manufacturer and Cutler, No. 77 SOUTH SECOND STREET, has commenced manufacturing Files, Table Knives and Forks, Razors of the first quality, warranted for use, Scissors made to order or pattern. Cutlery, of every description, ground, polished and repaired in the best manner, and at the shortest notice. Blades, of the best cast steel, put in Pen-knife handles, and warranted good; Table knives and forks repaired, either with new blades or handles; Old Files re-cut and made as new.
Oct 6—4f

CHEAP STORE.

BARNEST P. GROZET,

RESPECTFULLY informs his friends and the public, that he has commenced business at No. 4, NORTH SIXTH STREET, Philadelphia, where he intends to keep a general assortment of FRENCH HANGING PAPER, BOOKS and STATIONARY, &c. which he will dispose of on reasonable terms. (C) Teachers and Country Merchants will find it to their advantage to call before purchasing elsewhere. He has also for sale, TRUNKS of different sizes.

* PRINTING of every description, neatly executed, and on the most reasonable terms.

N. B. OLD RAGS BOUGHT.

aug 3—6m

A. ATKINSON'S SUPERIOR PATENT SPRING RIDING SADDLES, AND PATENT LAPORTE BRIDLES, &c.

HAVING purchased of JOHN J. MORRIS, of the city of New-York, the sole and entire right of making and vending his newly invented SPRING SEAT and SPRING POINTED SADDLES, within the city and county of Philadelphia, offers them for Sale,

AT HIS SADDLE & HARNESS MANUFACTORY,

No. 5 North Fifth street.

Gentlemen are respectfully invited to call and see the principle on which they are constructed.—Nearly two years' trial of the above Saddles in New-York, has rendered comments unnecessary—confidence of their utility he offers them to the public, that they may decide on their superiority.

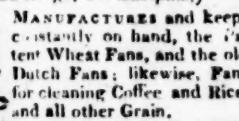

The Laporte Bridles are constructed in such a manner as to curb the most vicious Horse without injuring him, and with perfect ease and safety to the rider. They are well adapted for Ladies, and persons not in the practice of riding, as it gives them full power over their Horses in cases of fright. They can also be applied to Harness of every description. Also, for sale, an assortment of Superior STEEL and PLATED BITTS and STIRRUPS.

N. B. Gentlemen can be accommodated with Spring Saddles for trial, if required.

June 15—tf

JAMES B. WOOD,

42 SPRUCE, between Front and Second streets
(Near the Drawbridge, Philadelphia.)

MANUFACTURES and keeps constantly on hand, the latest Wheat Fans, and the old Dutch Fans; likewise, Fans for cleaning Coffee and Rice, and all other Grain.

CUTTING BOXES, of a superior kind, may be had as above, and others of all sorts and sizes.

FARMING UTENSILS, of every description, for sale at reasonable prices.

Orders for Shipping, or other purposes, will be supplied at the shortest notice, on moderate terms.

aug 3—tf

ISAAC H. WILLIAMSON,

A true copy,
W. H. HYER, Clerk.

In Chancery of New-Jersey.

Between Ann Wilson & Thomas Wilson,

Complainants,

And William M. Eldridge and Sarah, his wife, Jacob Pickett, John Paul and Joseph M. Paul, Defendants.

On Bill to foreclose, &c.
July 19, 1822.

IT appearing to the Court, that process of subpoena to appear, &c. hath issued against the above named defendants, and that William M. Eldridge and Sarah, his wife, John Paul and Joseph M. Paul have not, nor hath either of them, caused their appearance to be entered, as according to the rules of this Court the same ought to have been entered, in case such process had been duly served; and it also appearing, by affidavit, to the satisfaction of the Chancellor, that the said William M. Eldridge and Sarah, his wife, John Paul, and Joseph M. Paul, reside out of this state, and in the state of Pennsylvania—upon opening the matter, this day, to the Court, on behalf of Samuel J. Read, Solicitor of the complainants, the Chancellor doth order and direct the said William M. Eldridge and Sarah, his wife, John Paul and Joseph M. Paul, to appear, plead, answer, or demur to the complainant's bill of complaint in this cause, on or before the second Tuesday of October next, and in case they or either of them shall fail so to do, the complainant's bill shall be taken as confessed against them or either of them so failing to appear, plead, answer, or demur, and thereupon such decree shall be made as the Chancellor shall think equitable and just.

IT appearing to the Court, that process of subpoena to appear, &c. hath issued against the above named defendants, and that William M. Eldridge and Sarah, his wife, John Paul and Joseph M. Paul have not, nor hath either of them, caused their appearance to be entered, as according to the rules of this Court the same ought to have been entered, in case such process had been duly served; and it also appearing, by affidavit, to the satisfaction of the Chancellor, that the said William M. Eldridge and Sarah, his wife, John Paul, and Joseph M. Paul, reside out of this state, and in the state of Pennsylvania—upon opening the matter, this day, to the Court, on behalf of Samuel J. Read, Solicitor of the complainants, the Chancellor doth order and direct the said William M. Eldridge and Sarah, his wife, John Paul and Joseph M. Paul, to appear, plead, answer, or demur to the complainant's bill of complaint in this cause, on or before the second Tuesday of October next, and in case they or either of them shall fail so to do, the complainant's bill shall be taken as confessed against them or either of them so failing to appear, plead, answer, or demur, and thereupon such decree shall be made as the Chancellor shall think equitable and just.

IT appearing to the Court, that process of subpoena to appear, &c. hath issued against the above named defendants, and that John Hains, and Ann, his wife, two of the above named defendants, have not caused their appearance to be entered, as according to the rules of this Court, the same ought to have been entered in case such process had been duly served; and it also appearing by affidavit to the satisfaction of the Chancellor, that the said John Hains and Ann, his wife, reside out of this state and in the state of Pennsylvania—Upon opening the matter this day to the Court by Mr. Jeffers, Solicitor, and of counsel for the complainants, the Chancellor doth order and direct the said John Hains and Ann, his wife, to appear, plead, answer, or demur to the Complainant's Bill of Revision in this cause, on or before the second Tuesday of October next, and in case they or either of them shall fail so to do, the bill of the complainants shall be taken as confessed against him or them so failing to appear, plead, answer or demur, and thereupon such decree shall be made as the Chancellor shall think equitable and just.—And it is further ordered that a copy of this order be published within twenty days after the date hereof in the "New-Jersey Mirror," a newspaper printed and published at Mount-Holly, in this state, and be continued therein for the space of six weeks successively, once at least in each week, and also in one of the public newspapers printed and published in the city of Philadelphia, for the space of four weeks successively, once at least in each week.

IT appearing to the Court, that process of subpoena to appear, &c. hath issued against the above named defendants, and that John Hains, and Ann, his wife, two of the above named defendants, have not caused their appearance to be entered, as according to the rules of this Court, the same ought to have been entered in case such process had been duly served; and it also appearing by affidavit to the satisfaction of the Chancellor, that the said John Hains and Ann, his wife, reside out of this state and in the state of Pennsylvania—Upon opening the matter this day to the Court by Mr. Jeffers, Solicitor, and of counsel for the complainants, the Chancellor doth order and direct the said John Hains and Ann, his wife, to appear, plead, answer, or demur to the Complainant's Bill of Revision in this cause, on or before the second Tuesday of October next, and in case they or either of them shall fail so to do, the bill of the complainants shall be taken as confessed against him or them so failing to appear, plead, answer or demur, and thereupon such decree shall be made as the Chancellor shall think equitable and just.—And it is further ordered that a copy of this order be published within twenty days after the date hereof in the "Salem Messenger," a newspaper printed and published in Salem, in this State, for the space of six weeks successively, once at least in each week, and also in a newspaper printed and published in the State of Pennsylvania, within the said twenty days, for four weeks successively, once at least in each week.

IT appearing to the Court, that process of subpoena to appear, &c. hath issued against the above named defendants, and that John Hains, and Ann, his wife, two of the above named defendants, have not caused their appearance to be entered, as according to the rules of this Court, the same ought to have been entered in case such process had been duly served; and it also appearing by affidavit to the satisfaction of the Chancellor, that the said John Hains and Ann, his wife, reside out of this state and in the state of Pennsylvania—Upon opening the matter this day to the Court by Mr. Jeffers, Solicitor, and of counsel for the complainants, the Chancellor doth order and direct the said John Hains and Ann, his wife, to appear, plead, answer, or demur to the Complainant's Bill of Revision in this cause, on or before the second Tuesday of October next, and in case they or either of them shall fail so to do, the bill of the complainants shall be taken as confessed against him or them so failing to appear, plead, answer or demur, and thereupon such decree shall be made as the Chancellor shall think equitable and just.—And it is further ordered that a copy of this order be published within twenty days after the date hereof in the "Salem Messenger," a newspaper printed and published in Salem, in this State, for the space of six weeks successively, once at least in each week, and also in a newspaper printed and published in the State of Pennsylvania, within the said twenty days, for four weeks successively, once at least in each week.

IT appearing to the Court, that process of subpoena to appear, &c. hath issued against the above named defendants, and that John Hains, and Ann, his wife, two of the above named defendants, have not caused their appearance to be entered, as according to the rules of this Court, the same ought to have been entered in case such process had been duly served; and it also appearing by affidavit to the satisfaction of the Chancellor, that the said John Hains and Ann, his wife, reside out of this state and in the state of Pennsylvania—Upon opening the matter this day to the Court by Mr. Jeffers, Solicitor, and of counsel for the complainants, the Chancellor doth order and direct the said John Hains and Ann, his wife, to appear, plead, answer, or demur to the Complainant's Bill of Revision in this cause, on or before the second Tuesday of October next, and in case they or either of them shall fail so to do, the bill of the complainants shall be taken as confessed against him or them so failing to appear, plead, answer or demur, and thereupon such decree shall be made as the Chancellor shall think equitable and just.—And it is further ordered that a copy of this order be published within twenty days after the date hereof in the "Salem Messenger," a newspaper printed and published in Salem, in this State, for the space of six weeks successively, once at least in each week, and also in a newspaper printed and published in the State of Pennsylvania, within the said twenty days, for four weeks successively, once at least in each week.

IT appearing to the Court, that process of subpoena to appear, &c. hath issued against the above named defendants, and that John Hains, and Ann, his wife, two of the above named defendants, have not caused their appearance to be entered, as according to the rules of this Court, the same ought to have been entered in case such process had been duly served; and it also appearing by affidavit to the satisfaction of the Chancellor, that the said John Hains and Ann, his wife, reside out of this state and in the state of Pennsylvania—Upon opening the matter this day to the Court by Mr. Jeffers, Solicitor, and of counsel for the complainants, the Chancellor doth order and direct the said John Hains and Ann, his wife, to appear, plead, answer, or demur to the Complainant's Bill of Revision in this cause, on or before the second Tuesday of October next, and in case they or either of them shall fail so to do, the bill of the complainants shall be taken as confessed against him or them so failing to appear, plead, answer or demur, and thereupon such decree shall be made as the Chancellor shall think equitable and just.—And it is further ordered that a copy of this order be published within twenty days after the date hereof in the "Salem Messenger," a newspaper printed and published in Salem, in this State, for the space of six weeks successively, once at least in each week, and also in a newspaper printed and published in the State of Pennsylvania, within the said twenty days, for four weeks successively, once at least in each week.

IT appearing to the Court, that process of subpoena to appear, &c. hath issued against the above named defendants, and that John Hains, and Ann, his wife, two of the above named defendants, have not caused their appearance to be entered, as according to the rules of this Court, the same ought to have been entered in case such process had been duly served; and it also appearing by affidavit to the satisfaction of the Chancellor, that the said John Hains and Ann, his wife, reside out of this state and in the state of Pennsylvania—Upon opening the matter this day to the Court by Mr. Jeffers, Solicitor, and of counsel for the complainants, the Chancellor doth order and direct the said John Hains and Ann, his wife, to appear, plead, answer, or demur to the Complainant's Bill of Revision in this cause, on or before the second Tuesday of October next, and in case they or either of them shall fail so to do, the bill of the complainants shall be taken as confessed against him or them so failing to appear, plead, answer or demur, and thereupon such decree shall be made as the Chancellor shall think equitable and just.—And it is further ordered that a copy of this order be published within twenty days after the date hereof in the "Salem Messenger," a newspaper printed and published in Salem, in this State, for the space of six weeks successively, once at least in each week, and also in a newspaper printed and published in the State of Pennsylvania, within the said twenty days, for four weeks successively, once at least in each week.

IT appearing to the Court, that process of subpoena to appear, &c. hath issued against the above named defendants, and that John Hains, and Ann, his wife, two of the above named defendants, have not caused their appearance to be entered, as according to the rules of this Court, the same ought to have been entered in case such process had been duly served; and it also appearing by affidavit to the satisfaction of the Chancellor, that the said John Hains and Ann, his wife, reside out of this state and in the state of Pennsylvania—Upon opening the matter this day to the Court by Mr. Jeffers, Solicitor, and of counsel for the complainants, the Chancellor doth order and direct the said John Hains and Ann, his wife, to appear, plead, answer, or demur to the Complainant's Bill of Revision in this cause, on or before the second Tuesday of October next, and in case they or either of them shall fail so to do, the bill of the complainants shall be taken as confessed against him or them so failing to appear, plead, answer or demur, and thereupon such decree shall be made as the Chancellor shall think equitable and just.—And it is further ordered that a copy of this order be published within twenty days after the date hereof in the "Salem Messenger," a newspaper printed and published in Salem, in this State, for the space of six weeks successively, once at least in each week, and also in a newspaper printed and published in the State of Pennsylvania, within the said twenty days, for four weeks successively, once at least in each week.

IT appearing to the Court, that process of subpoena to appear, &c. hath issued against the above named defendants, and that John Hains, and Ann, his wife, two of the above named defendants, have not caused their appearance to be entered, as according to the rules of this Court, the same ought to have been entered in case such process had been duly served; and it also appearing by affidavit to the satisfaction of the Chancellor, that the said John Hains and Ann, his wife, reside out of this state and in the state of Pennsylvania—Upon opening the matter this day to the Court by Mr. Jeffers, Solicitor, and of counsel for the complainants, the Chancellor doth order and direct the said John Hains and Ann, his wife, to appear, plead, answer, or demur to the Complainant's Bill of Revision in this cause, on or before the second Tuesday of October next, and in case they or either of them shall fail so to do, the bill of the complainants shall be taken as confessed against him or them so failing to appear, plead, answer or demur, and thereupon such decree shall be made as the Chancellor shall think equitable and just.—And it is further ordered that a copy of this order be published within twenty days after the date hereof in the "Salem Messenger," a newspaper printed and published in Salem, in this State, for the space of six weeks successively, once at least in each week, and also in a newspaper printed and published in the State of Pennsylvania, within the said twenty days, for four weeks successively, once at least in each week.

IT appearing to the Court, that process of subpoena to appear, &c. hath issued against the above named defendants, and that John Hains, and Ann, his wife, two of the above named defendants, have